Randy Jones Leads the Way into qplex

Quispamsis, NB Monday, June 28, 2010: The town of Quispamsis has named the road leading into the qplex “Randy Jones Way”, in honor of the Quispamsis native who is currently playing hockey as a defenseman in the NHL.

“He is most deserving of this dedication - embodying the energy that the qplex represents, acknowledging his genuine pursuit of excellence in his chosen hockey career and his generous charitable support to his community,” remarked Mayor, Murray Driscoll at a special sign unveiling ceremony today.

“Randy Jones is the first player from Quispamsis to play in the NHL, and is an inspiration to young athletes who live in the Kennebecasis Valley. He has shown that hard work and dedication, coupled with talent, can lead anyone to achieve great things. We hope that by building the qplex, we are supporting our youth to aspire to be the best they can.”

“I am very humbled to think that my achievements can help inspire children in the community,” said Randy amidst friends, family and fans. “The confidence the town of Quispamsis has placed in me is a reminder of the support I was given when I played hockey before reaching the NHL.”

Earlier today, Randy and his family officially became the first KV residents to place their hands in concrete in support of the recently launched “Lasting Impressions” Community Fundraising Campaign for the qplex. Randy Jones joins a growing list of sponsors and individuals to support the qplex facility due to open in October 2010.
